

Question #	Question	Answer
8	We assume the goal is ultimately to achieve and support higher levels of output for DEW. In the past, turbine-based solutions have been discouraged, but are likely the only solution able to provide the power density required to achieve these levels. Are you open to turbine-based power solutions in response to this RFS?	USASMDC is considering all solutions. No particular solution is deemed of higher importance than another.